Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Dear Folks,

I strongly believe that the proposed settlement is fair and just to all parties. I highly recommend that the settlement be approved. It is time for us to allow Microsoft get back to the business of developing software. The first judge could not have been computer literate or he would not have made some of the comments if what was printed was indeed what was stated. For anyone like myself who has been using computers since mainframes and 300 baud modems were state of the art, many of the charges against MS are totally ridiculous.

I have nothing but admiration for Mr. Gates both in his business practices and in his personal life. I checked the charities that MS support and they are very thoughtful and oriented towards helping children and schools especially. To me, this whole fuss seems to be all about lawyers trying to get more MS money for themselves.

Let's please let MS supply the kids with computers and get on with business.

Happy Trails,
Judy Tallman
